Dear Parents,

"Whatever the mind can conceive and believe, the mind can achieve." ~ Napoleon Hill

Seasons change, months pass and people grow as transition is essential in all spheres of life to reach the pinnacle of success. The cycle of change continues throughout the years. The session 2018-19 has come to an end with enough learning experiences. This delightful and enriching session on Noise Pollution has come to an end with insights on the adverse impact of noise. As we come to the end of our academic session, once again it's an opportunity to revamp our strategies and tactics to improvise ourselves in all spheres of life.

The need of the hour is to take lessons from the past and work hard towards our setbacks to achieve a greater success in future. We should prepare ourselves to accept new challenges and responsibilities in the new academic year. It feels good to be able to put the past behind and be able to make a fresh start. Let us all look forward to a new beginning and not repeat the previous mistakes. In the past academic year, our sincere endeavor was to give plenty of opportunities to the students to enhance their potential. The session saw the young minds displaying their talent at various forums such as Thursday activities, presentations and assemblies. It gave ample opportunities to the students for showcasing their abilities. This not only reinforced their knowledge but also developed essential skills like quick response and thinking, oratory and presentation skills. The new academic session will also provide ample scope to broaden their horizons and hone their talents.

The word 'New' itself creates zeal in our mind to possess something which we have never had before. In this coming new session too, each one of us is expecting something special and different. We all want to attain higher goal, scale greater heights and explore new territories. I am quite sure that if we are prepared to back our hopes with conscientious hard work, all our efforts will bear fruit. So, for now let's realize the value of time, seize and enjoy every moment of it.

Warm Regards
Principal
